FIFA Fair Play Days 2014

Dear Sir or Madam,

We are pleased to inform you that this year’s FIFA Fair Play Days will be held from 1 to 9 September. These dates were chosen to coincide with FIFA’s official match days in September and to allow all member associations to incorporate FIFA Fair Play Days activities into the matches of their national teams and other football fixtures on those days in their respective countries.

Although fair play is a principle that should be applied all year round, the FIFA Fair Play Days provide the football community with a special occasion to recognise and highlight the best examples of sportsmanship of the year. Should you be aware of any special acts of fair play or sportsmanship during a match in your territory in 2014, please inform us at csr@fifa.org with a short description of the act and the contact details of those involved.

We encourage all member associations to actively promote sportsmanship, and with this in mind, we enclose an order form for FIFA Fair Play promotional material. Please return the order form with your request by fax by 23 July 2014 at the latest.

We also enclose:

- The FIFA Fair Play Code, which was approved by the FIFA Committee for Ethics and Fair Play on 28 June 2005.
- A media release containing a joint appeal for fair play by the president of your association and FIFA President Joseph S. Blatter for distribution to the media.
- A message to be announced in stadiums on the FIFA Fair Play Days.
- Examples of activities that member associations have organised to mark Fair Play Day in previous years.
- A sample Fair Play Declaration for use by team captains before kick-offs.
We trust that you will use all of these resources to promote fair play in general and the Fair Play Days in particular. We remain at your disposal to provide you with any assistance you may need to make this project a success worldwide.

Please let us know if you need anything further.

Yours faithfully,

FÉDÉRATION INTERNATIONALE
DE FOOTBALL ASSOCIATION

Fair Play Code

The FIFA Fair Play Code for football encapsulates all of the sporting, moral and ethical principles for which FIFA has always stood and for which it will continue to fight in the future, regardless of the influences and pressures that may be brought to bear.

The ten golden rules not only serve as a credo for FIFA as world football’s governing body, but they also reinforce the sense of fraternity and cooperation among the members of the worldwide football family.

1. Play fair

Winning is without value if victory has been achieved unfairly or dishonestly. Cheating is easy, but brings no pleasure. Playing fair requires courage and character. It is also more satisfying. Fair play always has its reward, even when the game is lost. Playing fair earns respect, while cheating only brings shame. Remember: it is only a game. And games are pointless unless played fairly.
2. Play to win but accept defeat with dignity

Winning is the object of playing any game. Never set out to lose. If you do not play to win, you are cheating your opponents, deceiving those who are watching, and also fooling yourself. Never give up against stronger opponents but never relent against weaker ones. It is an insult to any opponent to play at less than full strength. Play to win, until the final whistle. But remember nobody wins all the time. You win some, you lose some. Learn to lose graciously. Do not seek excuses for defeat. Genuine reasons will always be self-evident. Congratulate the winners with good grace. Do not blame the referee or anyone else. Be determined to do better next time. Good losers earn more respect than bad winners.

3. Observe the Laws of the Game

All games need rules to guide them. Without rules, there would be chaos. The rules of football are simple and easy to learn. Make sure you learn them; it will help you to understand the game better. Understanding the game better will make you a better player. It is equally important to understand the spirit of the rules. They are designed to make the game fun to play and fun to watch. By sticking to the rules, the game will be more enjoyable.

4. Respect opponents, team-mates, referees, officials and spectators

Fair Play means respect. Respect is part of our game. Without opponents there can be no game. Everyone has the same rights, including the right to be respected. Team-mates are colleagues. Form a team in which all members are equal. Referees are there to maintain discipline and Fair Play. Always accept their decisions without arguing, and help them to enable all participants to have a more enjoyable game. Officials are also part of the game and must be respected accordingly. Spectators give the game atmosphere. They want to see the game played fairly, but must also behave fairly and with respect themselves.

5. Promote the interests of football

Football is the world’s greatest game. But it always needs everybody’s help to maintain its greatness. Think of football’s interests before your own. Think how your actions may affect the image of the game. Talk about the positive things in the game. Encourage other people to watch and play fairly. Help others to have as much fun from football as you do. Be an ambassador for the game.

6. Honour those who defend football’s good reputation

The good name of football has survived because the vast majority of people who love the game are honest and fair. Sometimes somebody does something exceptional that deserves our special recognition. They should be honoured and their fine example publicised. This encourages others to act in the same way. Help to promote football’s image by publicising its good deeds.
7. Reject corruption, drugs, racism, violence, gambling and other dangers to our sport

Football’s huge popularity sometimes makes it vulnerable to negative outside interests. Watch out for attempts to tempt you into cheating or using drugs. Drugs have no place in football, in any other sport or in society as a whole. Say no to drugs. Help to kick racism and bigotry out of football. Treat all players and everyone else equally, regardless of their religion, race, sex or national origin. Show zero tolerance for gambling on games in which you participate. It negatively affects your ability to perform and creates the appearance of a conflict of interests. Show that football does not want violence, even from your own fans. Football is sport, and sport is peace.

8. Help others to resist corrupting pressures

You may hear that team-mates or other people you know are being tempted to cheat in some way or otherwise engage in behaviour deemed unacceptable. They need your help. Do not hesitate to stand by them. Give them the strength to resist. Remind them of their commitment to their team-mates and to the game itself. Form a block of solidarity, like a solid defence on the field of play.

9. Denounce those who attempt to discredit our sport

Do not be ashamed to stand up to anybody who you are sure is trying to make others cheat or engage in other unacceptable behaviour. It is better to expose them and have them removed before they can do any damage. It is equally dishonest to go along with a dishonest act. Do not just say no. Denounce those misguided persons who are trying to spoil our sport before they can persuade somebody else to say yes.

10. Use football to make a better world

Football has an incredible power, which can be used to make this world a better place in which everyone can live. Use this powerful platform to promote peace, equality, health and education for everyone. Make the game better, take it to the world, and you will be fostering a better world.
Fair Play declaration by Team Captains

Principle

To attract the attention of the spectators in the stadium and viewers of television coverage by involving team captains and having them read a declaration of their commitment towards Fair Play.

Note: this initiative was successfully used by FIFA at the FIFA Women’s World Cup USA 2003.

Proposal

- The official countdown shall start 2 minutes earlier. The Match Coordinator (MC) shall adjust timings accordingly.
- The MC hands over the sheets (1 per team) with the respective declaration and a cordless microphone to the assistant referees before marching onto the field.
- There is no change to the official march-on ceremony until the teams line up for the national anthems.
- Once the teams have lined up, the announcer reads the introduction text (see enclosed Text 1). At the same time, the assistant referees hand over the sheets with the declarations and the cordless microphones to the team captains.
- Once the announcer has finished the introduction text, the captain of team A reads the first sentence of the declaration. The captain of team B follows, reading the second sentence of the declaration. They alternate again for the third sentence and in the end, both captains say the fourth sentence ("My Game is Fair Play") at the same time (see enclosed Text 2). (Declarations are read in the players’ own language).
- Once the declaration is over, the captains give the microphones and sheets back to the assistant referees. As soon as the applause has ended, the national anthem might be played.

Special needs

- The MC shall make sure that 2 (tested) cordless microphones are available.
- The MC shall inform the teams about the procedure. The captains should be encouraged to speak with the microphone very close to their mouths and to read with enthusiasm. The declaration text should also be shown to them in advance, so that they can familiarise themselves with the text and format.
- The MC shall include the relevant texts in the announcer’s programme.
- The declaration’s text enclosed needs to be translated into the national language.

Example for stadium announcement

Ladies and gentlemen,

Today is a very special day for world football – today is FIFA Fair Play Day.

Every football match played around the world today is celebrating FIFA Fair Play Day in order to praise and promote the sporting spirit of our game.

Today especially, this is a reminder that every player, coach, referee and fan must not lose sight of the fact that the best formula for playing football is by demonstrating fair play and respect.

Let us show the world that football brings people together and that it will remain the most important and respected sport in the world.

Please help us to make FIFA Fair Play Day an unforgettable event!

Of course, the Fair Play project does not have to end on Fair Play Day; the date can be used as the kick-off to an extended Fair Play campaign.

In addition, projects for peace or against discrimination, work on behalf of under-privileged groups, sport for the disabled, campaigns against child labour and in favour of education and health, are among FIFA’s social responsibility programmes and also part of its Fair Play concept. Member associations are also encouraged to “extend” their Fair Play concepts to include social responsibility programmes.
Media Release

The world unites in fair play

The (name of association) and its President, (name of the President of the association), appeal to players, referees, fans and officials throughout the country to help praise and promote the spirit of fair play on the FIFA Fair Play Days.

FIFA is holding its 18th annual FIFA Fair Play Days during the official match days from 1 to 9 September. This initiative has the personal support of FIFA President Joseph S. Blatter.

“Fair play is essential to our sport and to everyone involved in it,” declared (name of the President of the association). “We need to cherish and nurture the values of sporting spirit and work tirelessly to keep up the momentum. We are appealing to all football fans in (name of country) to help us celebrate the FIFA Fair Play Days.”

President Blatter recognises the fundamental role of fair play in sport and the need to apply it to all sporting activities, including children’s activities. “Children need strong values to grow up with, and football, being a team sport, makes them realise how essential discipline, respect, team spirit and fair play are for the game and for life,” he commented. “FIFA’s Fair Play campaign involves much more than simply promoting fair play on the pitch during a competition. FIFA is committed to encouraging fair play in society too, beginning with our future – with children,” he said.

These are the 18th annual FIFA Fair Play Days to be celebrated since their introduction in 1997. In previous years, activities have been held in dozens of countries around the world, from grassroots to top-flight football and in many community-based projects.
