These Guidelines are designed to offer guidance and information to the general public on the use of FIFA’s Official Marks in relation to the 2018 FIFA World Cup Russia™ and the FIFA Confederations Cup Russia 2017™.

Please note that these Guidelines are not a licence or legal document and do not confirm whether or not an activity infringes any rights in relation to the 2018 FIFA World Cup Russia™ and the FIFA Confederations Cup Russia 2017™. We regret that FIFA cannot provide individual feedback on each potential use of its Official Marks. It is the responsibility of individuals to seek their own legal advice.
1- INTRODUCTION

FIFA

Fédération Internationale de Football Association ("FIFA") is the world governing body of association football. FIFA is the owner of all rights in relation to the 2018 FIFA World Cup Russia™ ("the Event"), which includes all media, marketing, licensing and ticketing rights.

FIFA has appointed the Russian Football Association, one of its member associations, with the organisation and staging of the Event and for this purpose the Russian Football Association has created the Local Organising Committee ("LOC").

FIFA World Cup™

The FIFA World Cup™ is the world’s largest single sports event and one of the world’s most watched sports competitions, and enjoys major interest from sports fans and the business world alike. Many entities, organisations, businesses and non-commercial organisations will want to be a part of its next edition which will be held in Russia from 14 June to 15 July, 2018.

Due to the enormous cost of staging such a large event, FIFA would not be able to organise the tournament without the significant support of its sponsors, media rights and other licensees, the host country and host cities, as well as the LOC. These stakeholders all make vital financial contributions to ensure that this funded event can be staged.
2 – SUPPORT BY FIFA’S RIGHTS HOLDERS

FIFA’s Rights Holders, which are further defined under 4 below, all make vital financial contributions to ensure that the Event can be staged. In return for their support, FIFA’s Rights Holders are granted the exclusive right to use FIFA’s Official Marks, including but not limited to those depicted under 6 below for promotional and advertising purposes, and thereby enjoy the benefit of associating with the Event.
3 – IMPORTANCE OF PROTECTING THE EVENT BRAND

Without the significant support of FIFA’s Rights Holders, FIFA would not be able to organise the Event. The Rights Holders will only invest in the Event if they are provided exclusivity for the use of the Official Marks. Without exclusivity, i.e. if the Brand of the Event were not protected and anyone would be able to use the Official Marks and thereby create an association with the Event for free, becoming a Rights Holder will be less attractive as the acquired rights would be significantly diluted. This would make appointing Rights Holders more difficult for FIFA and in turn could result in FIFA not being able to secure the necessary funding for the Event from such revenues.

Therefore, the protection of the commercial rights is crucial for staging the Event, and FIFA asks that non-affiliated entities respect FIFA’s intellectual property and conduct their activities without commercially associating with the Event.
4 – FIFA RIGHTS HOLDERS

FIFA grants certain Event-related rights to various entities across multiple industries. These entities are involved in marketing programmes, broadcast rights and hospitality packages and are granted advertising and promotional rights associated with FIFA and/or the Event (“Rights Holders”). FIFA has appointed the following Rights Holders:

COMMERCIAL AFFILIATES

Commercial Affiliates acquire a sponsorship package based on a three-tier system comprising FIFA Partners, FIFA World Cup Sponsors and Regional Supporters.

1. FIFA Partners

   FIFA Partners are six to eight companies which FIFA has granted or will grant the most comprehensive package of global advertising, promotional and marketing rights in relation to FIFA and all FIFA competitions, including the Event. The following companies currently are FIFA Partners:

   [Images of brands]

2. FIFA World Cup Sponsors

   FIFA World Cup Sponsors are six to eight companies which FIFA has granted or will grant the second-most comprehensive package of global advertising, promotional and marketing rights in relation to the Event and the FIFA Confederations Cup™ Russia 2017. The following companies currently are FIFA World Cup™ Sponsors:

   [Images of brands]

3. Regional Supporters

   Regional Supporters are a total of up to 20 companies, with a maximum of four companies per region which FIFA will grant a package of advertising, promotional and marketing rights in relation to the Event for their specific territory.

   The five pre-defined regions are Europe, North/Central America, South America, Africa/Middle East, and Asia.
The following company is currently a FIFA Regional Supporter:

MEDIA RIGHTS LICENSEES

Media Rights Licensees are entities which have been granted certain media rights to the Event in a particular territory or territories. These media rights include the following:

- TV Rights;
- Radio Rights;
- Broadband Rights;
- IPTV Transmission Rights; and
- Mobile Transmission Rights.

BRANDED/UNBRANDED LICENSEES

Branded/unbranded Licensees are entities to which FIFA has granted or will grant the right to manufacture and sell Official Licensed Products.

HOSPITALITY

FIFA has appointed MATCH Hospitality AG as the worldwide exclusive rights holder for the FIFA Hospitality Programme of the FIFA Confederations Cup™ Russia 2017 and the Event. It is the only company that is permitted to offer exclusive hospitality packages worldwide through its appointed sales agents.

Further details on the various FIFA Rights Holders are available on www.FIFA.com.
5 – HOW TO BENEFIT WITHOUT CREATING AN UNAUTHORISED ASSOCIATION

The experience from previous FIFA World Cup™ tournaments has shown that there are many ways a company can benefit from the Event without using the Official Marks or commercially associating itself with the Event.

Many companies engage in activities seeking to celebrate the Event and to take advantage of the marketing opportunities which arise in connection with the Event. Such commercial association can be established when a company makes it appear as if there is a connection to the Event, either through use of the Official Marks, sponsorship or other affiliation.

Companies which are not Commercial Affiliates may not engage in advertising activities that might give rise to an undue commercial association with the Event and/or FIFA.

FIFA encourages the public to get involved in supporting/celebrating the Event bearing the following in mind:

- Any generic football or country related images used without any of FIFA’s Intellectual Property allow the public to support their teams without creating any unauthorised association with the Event and/or FIFA.

- Any use of FIFA’s Intellectual Property without prior written authorisation from FIFA may create an unauthorised association with the Event and/or FIFA.

We encourage you to seek independent legal advice to ensure any planned promotional activities are not infringing FIFA’s intellectual property and/or other commercial rights.
6 – OFFICIAL MARKS

FIFA has developed a range of logos, words, titles, symbols and other assets/brands/identifiers which are used in connection with the Event (“Official Marks”). The Official Marks are protected in Russia and territories around the world by copyright, trademark and/or other forms of intellectual property and laws such as unfair competition or passing off. These laws protect FIFA against the unauthorised use of both identical reproductions and also confusingly similar variations and modifications of the Official Marks.

The Official Marks are only permitted for use by FIFA Rights Holders. If you are not a FIFA Rights Holder and would like to request the use of the Official Emblems or the Official Mascot for the Event, please visit https://www.fifadigitalarchive.com/welcome/markrequest/.

The following is not the full list of FIFA’s Official Marks in relation to the Event and the FIFA Confederations Cup 2017™. For a full list of FIFA’s trademarks in any specific country, and the specific goods and services for which they are protected, please seek advice from a local intellectual property attorney or inquire with the respective Intellectual Property Office.

7 – EXAMPLES OF USE

This section intends to assist third parties to avoid any unauthorised association with the tournament. It is not feasible to illustrate every possible scenario of acceptable use compared to unauthorised association, or comment on the different legal sanctions that may apply in each country.

In these examples, references to the Official Marks include similar variations of such Official Marks in 6 above.

Descriptions of use of the Official Marks cover all forms of print and digital media, including but not limited to printed publications, TV, web, mobile, apps and social media.

Please note: These examples are given for illustrative purposes only

These guidelines are not to be used by companies who deliberately intend to ambush FIFA’s marketing rights as a tool to carefully avoid legal liability. The below scenarios are artificially simplistic in order to provide practical assistance to companies who have a legitimate intention to avoid unfairly associating with the Event. Past experience has shown that companies who try to use these guidelines as a defence to an act of unfair association or infringement are unsuccessful. FIFA trusts that you will cooperate with and respect its requests and rights. For this reason, all of FIFA’s rights are explicitly reserved.

These Public Guidelines only address rights owned by FIFA and do not contain or indicate any statement with respect to any rights held by any third party, such as players, clubs, member associations, confederations, FIFA Commercial Affiliates or other entities, organisations and/or individuals.

The news media are welcome to use the Official Marks for legitimate non-commercial editorial and informational purposes, provided that such use does not create any undue association between the tournament and any entities other than FIFA’s Rights Holders.

Below are some general guidelines for the news media on how to use the Official Marks in a manner that is consistent with legal freedoms, but yet respects FIFA’s commercial programme and the rights of FIFA’s Rights Holders. TERMS OF USE OF THE MARKS

Editorial Use

Official Marks may be used for the purpose of identifying or illustrating articles about or news coverage of the Event. However the Official Marks must not be used as an integral part of the layout of a publication or as elements of the brand of a publication.

No promotional / advertising use

The Official Marks may not be used for any advertising or promotional purposes, including on any products for commercial purposes, e.g. in any competition, lottery or other type of contest.

Use of match schedule

Please refer to B in Section 7 above.
Use on front covers

The Official Marks may be used on the front covers of newspapers to illustrate editorial articles as mentioned above. Care should be taken when the Official Marks are used on the front covers of print magazines or special edition print publications. The appearance of the Official Marks in the content and title of such products is most likely to be mistakenly perceived by consumers as an indication that the print publication is licensed by FIFA.

Use of match tickets

The use of match tickets for any type of competition, sweepstake or promotion is expressly forbidden unless it is organised by a FIFA Rights Holder and/or organized with specific written permission by FIFA.

No association

The Official Marks must not appear in such a way as to suggest an association between FIFA or the Event on the one part and the user, its trade name, logo or other marks, or the user’s goods and services, on the other part.

No third party association

The news media should not authorise any third party to use or associate themselves with the Official Marks and should not use the Official Marks in such manner that allows any third party to gain an unauthorised association with the Event. The Official Marks should be clearly separated from third party advertisements in order to avoid any confusion. Extreme care should be taken for publications, or sections of publications, sponsored by third parties as the risk of mistaken third party association is high.
