Match highlights

Belgium-Tunisia
- Belgium scored five goals in the World Cup game for the first time, and equalled their biggest win in the competition, having recorded 3-0 victories over El Salvador in 1970 and Panama earlier this tournament.
- Romelu Lukaku tied the record of Marc Wilmots – his coach at Brazil 2014 – for most goals for Belgium at the World Cup (5).
- Belgium won their sixth successive group-stage game at the World Cup and are now undefeated in their last 11 first-stage matches in the competition.
- Tunisia have not won in 13 World Cup matches, which is tied with Chile and Mexico for the third-longest drought in the competition’s history behind Korea Republic (14) and Bulgaria (17).
- Tunisia became the seventh side to make two first-half substitutions in a World Cup game. Coincidentally, one of the others – Russia in 2002 – coincidentally also made them against Belgium.
- Belgium remain unbeaten against African opposition in the World Cup, winning three and drawing one of their four meetings.
- Belgium-Tunisia was the 27th match at Russia 2018 without a goalless draw – the longest-ever start to a tournament without a 0-0, breaking the record set when all 26 games at Switzerland 1954 involved a goal.

Korea Republic-Mexico
- Mexico have won their first two group games at a World Cup for the second time. They began Korea/Japan 2002 by beating Croatia and Ecuador by the same score as they defeated Germany and Korea Republic in Russia – 1-0 and then 2-1.
- Javier Hernandez became the third Mexican to score in three World Cups after Cuauhtemoc Blanco and Rafael Marquez. ‘Chicharito’ also became Mexico’s joint-leading marksman in the tournament alongside namesake Luis Hernandez (four goals).
- Mexico have won all four of their meetings with Asian sides in the World Cup, beating Iraq 1-0 in 1986, Korea Republic 3-1 in 1998, Iran 3-1 in 2006 and Korea Republic 2-1 in 2018.
- Mexico won their second World Cup game in white shirts – their previous was against Bulgaria in 1986 – in what was their ninth attempt. They now have won two, drawn five and lost two in white jerseys in the tournament.
- Korea Republic have now gone eight World Cup matches without victory since a 2-0 defeat of Greece in their South Africa 2010 curtain-raiser. Son Heungming did nevertheless end the Taeguk Warriors’ longest run without scoring in the competition at 288 minutes.

Germany-Sweden
- Toni Kroos scored Germany’s latest-ever goal in normal time of a World Cup game in the 95th minute.
- Toni Kroos’ goal was the tenth scored during second-half injury-time at Russia 2014, accounting for 14 per cent of all the goals scored.
- Jerome Boateng became the eighth German to be sent off in the World Cup. The previous had been Miroslav Klose against Serbia in 2010.
- Sweden haven’t beaten Germany since April 1978, when they won 3-1 against a West Germany side including Sepp Maier, Bertil Vogts, Karl-Heinz Rummenigge and Klaus Fischer in a friendly. Thereafter, they have lost seven and drawn five.
On this day in the past

1950
Antonio Carbajal appears in his first-ever FIFA World Cup match (Brazil 4-0 Mexico). The Mexican goalkeeper would go on to become first of only three players to have played in five FIFA World Cups, the others being Germany’s Lothar Matthäus and Mexican’s Rafael Marquez.

1958
Brazil’s Pele hits three goals in a 5-2 semi-final victory over France. He is still the youngest player to have scored a hat-trick at a FIFA World Cup, aged 17 years and 244 days.

2010
For the first time in World Cup history, the two finalists from the previous tournament (in this case Italy and France) are both eliminated at the end of the group stage.

2014
Goalkeeper Faryd Mondragón becomes the oldest player in FIFA World Cup history at the age of 43 years and three days, surpassing the record of 42 years and 39 days set by Cameroon’s Roger Milla in 1994. Mondragón also establishes a new benchmark for the longest gap between successive appearances in the tournament, having played his last match on 26 June 1998. The previous record of 12 years and 13 days had been set by Switzerland’s Alfred Bickel between 1938 and 1950.

The first was a goalless friendly played at Wembley in 1995 (the one where Rene Higuita pulled off his famous scorpion-kick save). The second was in Lens at the 1998 World Cup, when Colombia lost 2-0. In that game Gareth Southgate was an unused substitute for England, who were managed by Glenn Hoddle.

Figures of the Soviet Union in brackets

Facts & figures

- Uruguay have progressed from the group round for the third consecutive edition, whereas Russia enter the second stage for the first time in 32 years, after the then Soviet Union last did it in 1986.

- The sides have faced off eight times, including meetings with Soviet Union, and Russia have by far the better track record with six wins to one, plus one draw. The first showdown was a friendly held in Montevideo in 1961, which Soviet Union won 2-1. The most recent was another friendly in Moscow in 2012 and ended 1-1 following goals from Luis Suarez and Aleksandr Kerzhakov.

- This is the pair’s third FIFA World Cup engagement, after Soviet Union won 2-1 in 1962 and Uruguay achieved their only success against the eastern Europeans with a 1-0 extra-time victory in the 1970 quarter-finals.

- Uruguay have never won all three of their group-round matches, in contrast to their opponents, who as Soviet Union respectively overcame Korea DPR, Italy and Chile in 1966.

- Uruguay have contested only one World Cup fixture on 25 June and, just as on this occasion, their opponents were the host team. La Celeste lost 2-0 to Italy in the Round of 16 in 1990 in Rome.

- Russia/Soviet Union have suffered four consecutive defeats in World Cup matches against South American opponents since 1966, when they edged Chile 2-1. Besides the reverse against Uruguay in 1970, the east Europeans lost twice to Brazil (1982 and 1994) and once to Argentina (1990).

- Los Charrúas face the home team in a World Cup for the fifth time. It previously happened in 1950 (2-1 to Brazil), 1966 (0-0 with England), 1990 (2-0 to Italy) and 2010 (3-0 to South Africa).

- This is the 18th World Cup match overseen by Uruguayan coach Oscar Tabarez, who moves up to sixth place in the competition’s all-time appearance list alongside Enzo Bearzot, Sepp Herberger and Guus Hiddink.

- Denis Cheryshev and Artem Dzyuba scored in their first two games of this campaign. In past editions, only two of their compatriots hit the target in three successive matches, namely Soviet Union players Valentin Ivanov in 1962 and Valeriy Pankuyan in 1966.

- Fernando Muslera could play his 14th World Cup game, thereby surpassing the 13-match career tally of Ladislao Mazurkiewicz to become Uruguay’s most experienced player by appearances in the event’s history.

- With his goal against Saudi Arabia, Luis Suarez became the first Uruguayan to find the net in three World Cups.

⚽ Egypt are yet to savour victory in the World Cup, having notched two draws and four defeats.

⚽ Meanwhile, Saudi Arabia are winless in 12 games in the event, where they have not scored for 366 minutes.

Facts & figures

- Portugal won both of the teams’ two previous encounters and are yet to concede a goal against IR Iran.

- The most recent meeting dates back to the 2006 World Cup, when the Portuguese prevailed 2-0. The second goal was a penalty scored by Cristiano Ronaldo, his maiden World Cup goal.

- For the 20th time, a coach (in this case Carlos Queiroz) is facing the team of his homeland. The first time it happened was in 1938 with Hungarian tactician Josef Nagy, who sat in Sweden's dugout, whereas the last time was four years ago, when Jurgen Klinsmann led USA against Germany.

- Portugal have collected three wins and one defeat against Asian teams in the World Cup. The Lusitanians overcame Korea DPR 5-3 in 1966, IR Iran 2-0 in 2006 and Korea DPR again in 2010, by the scoreline of 7-0. Their only defeat ended 1-0 to Korea Republic in 2002.

- IR Iran have played seven World Cup games against European opposition and are still searching for their first win, having mustered just one draw with Scotland (1-1 in 1978).

- Portugal have contested two World Cup fixtures on 25 June, without conceding a goal. In 2006 they edged the Netherlands 1-0 in the Round of 16, before holding Brazil to a 0-0 draw in the group round in 2010.

- IR Iran are playing a World Cup game on 25 June for the third time. Both previous occasions ended in defeat, 2-0 against Germany in 1998 and 3-1 against Bosnia and Herzegovina in 2014.

- In the 1983/84 season, current Portugal coach Fernando Santos was a player on the books of Estoril, who in December 1983 hired coach Mario Wilson and second-in-command Carlos Queiroz. At the end of the season, the club was relegated to the second division.

- Spain have won their final group-round match in eight consecutive campaigns since 1986. Their last defeat stretches back to 1982, when they slumped to a 1-0 loss against Northern Ireland.
- That defeat by Northern Ireland in 1982 was also Spain’s only reverse in the three World Cup games they have played on 25 June. The other two ended in victory, 3-1 over USA in 1950 and 2-1 over Chile in 2010.

- The four meetings between Spain and African opponents in the World Cup have produced 17 goals in total, averaging 4.25 per match. The Iberians defeated Algeria 3-0 in 1986, South Africa 3-2 in 2002 and Tunisia 3-1 in 2006, losing 3-2 to Nigeria in 1998.
- Morocco achieved their only two victories in the World Cup against European opposition (Portugal in 1986 and Scotland in 1998). The North Africans’ past record in the competition also includes four draws and five defeats.
- This is the second World Cup fixture contested by Morocco on 25 June, following the Atlas Lions’ 2-1 loss to Saudi Arabia in 1994.

A 33-stop journey through Russian and Soviet football history as we countdown towards the FIFA World Cup Final at the Luzhniki on July 15th.

21 days to the FINAL

21 June 2008 was the date for one of the most memorable matches in modern Russian football history: in the quarter-final of UEFA EURO 2008, Guus Hiddink’s team put on a spectacular display to defeat title contenders the Netherlands 3-1. The Oranje managed to take the match to extra time when Ruud van Nistelrooy cancelled out Roman Pavlyuchenko’s opener in the 86th minute, before strikes from Dmitri Torbinsky and Andrei Arshavin put Russia into the semi-finals. The victory sparked widespread jubilation across the country, and hundreds of thousands of fans took to the streets of Russian cities to celebrate this unlikely success.

The two victories achieved by Greece in their ten matches played were both against African opposition and finished 2-1, against Nigeria in 2010 and Côte d’Ivoire in 2014.

Otto Rehhagel became the oldest manager in the event’s history when he guided the Ethniki in the 2010 edition aged 71 years and 317 days.

After a 404-minute goal drought spanning their first four games between 1994 and 2010, Greece’s historic first strike in the FIFA World Cup was netted in South Africa by Dimitrios Salpingidis in the 2-1 win over Nigeria.
Switching Roles

Nine of the coaches competing in Russia 2018 have playing experience in the FIFA World Cup. They will feature in our Stats of the Day together with other players/managers who have shaped the competition’s history.

OLEG BLOKHIN

An iconic forward for Dynamo Kiev in the seventies and eighties, Oleg Blokhin wore the shirt of Soviet Union in two editions of the FIFA World Cup. He racked up five games and one goal (against New Zealand) in 1982, followed by two matches and a goal against Canada in 1986. Blokhin returned to the fray 20 years later, steering Ukraine to the quarter-finals, where they were knocked out by eventual world champions Italy.

Seats from Wembley Stadium in London prior to its closure in 2000

Wembley Stadium in North London was opened in 1923 before a world record crowd put at over 200,000 by some estimates. It was famous as the home of the FA Cup Final, the venue for the 1966 World Cup Final and for its greyhound racing. Equally as famous were its twin towers. Two years after its 75 anniversary it closed down and they, along with the stadium, were demolished. A giant arch replaced them and the new stadium opened in 2007. These seats from the original stadium were witness to English football’s greatest triumph in the 1966 World Cup Final, Germany’s triumph in Euro 96 as well as to five European Cup Finals but are now relics from a bygone age in English football.
